

What an awesome lake!

The Great Salt Lake is my favorite place,
When I'm there, my heart skips a pace.

Even though the smell fills my nose,
It's nature's way to decompose.

The keystone brine shrimp eat the algae,
And keep the birds happy and gay.

My imagination went buckwild,
When I imagine this landscape before I was even a child.

The white of the salt evokes the white of the snow,
Without the lake there would be no ski slopes where we could go.

This ecosystem cycle doesn't halt,
There's no place quite like a bed of salt.
